GEEO is a 501c3 non-profit organization that helps educators travel and then share that experience with their student when they return to the classroom through curriculum we designed with the help of UPenn. Currently, GEEO has programs in over 30 different countries around the world. Each program is 1-3 weeks, takes place over the summer, and is subsidized so as to be affordable for educators. Participants can earn graduate credit and professional development while seeing the world. Programs are open to active and retired educators and each educator is permitted to bring along a non-educator guest.

5%-15% off regular prices for general public. Programs are specifically designed for educators. When signing up, list NJEA in the "Are you a member of a teachers' association?" field for discount to be applied.

Bullying Prevention

FamilyeJournal, LLC

(240) 398-7228

Statewide

FamilyeJournal (FEJ) is an interactive program aimed to improve mental and emotional wellness throughout a school. Studies show when a person feels a strong connection to others their behaviors improve. FEJ helps open the lines of family communication by asking simple and fun questions that all family members can answer and share in a private, online forum. When used regularly, FEJ helps strengthen relationships which can lead to improved attendance, grades, test scores and retention while reducing bullying, depression, drug/alcohol abuse and other high risk behaviors. FEJ is also a great program for faculty and staff as part of their employee wellness package.

FamilyeJournal would like to offer a 25% discount for the annual program to NJ schools who have NJEA members. Retail price of $360 for Student Program reduced to $270. Retail price of $120 for Add-on Staff Program reduced to $90. Programs include monthly reporting for one year. To take advantage of this offer, NJEA members need only email a copy of their NJEA membership card along with the FamilyeJournal Partner Agreement (available upon request). The offer is valid until December 31, 2015.
